Township's Chief Pinelli Leaving Princeton For Quiet, Spacious, Game-Filled Montana

Tony Pinelli
"Maybe I was born 100 years too late."

A 25-year police career, including the last five as Chief, ends Friday for Anthony M. Pinelli.

But no sad goodbyes for Tony, who was born and raised in Princeton, graduated from Princeton High in 1956 and joined the Township police department in December, 1961, as a newlywed. For as long as he's been a policeman, Chief Pinelli has had a dream and, unlike many, he is about to realize it.

"For the last 25 years I've always said I wanted to go west," he confessed. "Maybe I heard so many times the phrase, 'Go West, young man. Go West.' But I like the outdoors; I like the spaciousness, the mountains, the streams and woods. So even though I was born and raised in Princeton, I feel that maybe I was born 100 years too late."

Nassau St. Sidewalks Won't Be Fixed in '87

It seems now that Princeton will celebrate the arrival of the crocuses before it gets its new sidewalk on Nassau Street.

Reconstruction of the sidewalk, which was expected to begin in September, has been postponed until the spring in order to allow property owners to link their laterals to the new sewer line under Nassau Street. It was the installation of the sewer line that led to the breakup of the old sidewalk and the construction of the temporary asphalt one.

The project, which will take place on the north side of Nassau Street from Palmer Square West to Vandeventer Avenue, is budgeted at some $600,000. This will include, in addition to the sidewalk itself, certain amenities to the streetscape. Mayor Sigmund has suggested that these might take the form of planters, fountains, benches, trash receptacles, bicycle parking facilities, more trees, and improved lighting.

Deadline Fast Approaching in Search For Low-Income Rental Housing Site

With the clock ticking down to a September 27 deadline, the Borough Housing Authority is turning once again to the Borough for help in finding a site for 20 units of low-income rental housing.

The Housing Authority has been promised $1.6 million from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) — providing it finds land on which to build the units. The monies will be sufficient to cover construction costs, but not the cost of land. If the land is not found by the deadline date, the $1.6 million will be lost to Princeton.

Attempts by the Housing Authority to secure some two to three acres of suitable land from either the Borough or Township have gone on for almost a year, beginning last October when the Authority received word from HUD that its construction grant request had been approved.

At the Borough Council meeting scheduled for Tuesday, August 25, the Housing Authority is expected to formally request the Borough's assistance in acquiring part of the sewer operating fields for the project. This land, on Herontown and River Roads, is in the Township, but is jointly owned by the three members of the Sewer Operating Committee: the Borough, the Township, and Princeton University.

There was some hope, in June, that the units could be constructed on Township-owned land located on Route 206 directly across from Valley Road and the Township Police Station. The land is bounded by Community Park North to the west and the Unitarian Church to the northeast.

Aerospace Professor Is Chosen President Of Computing Group

A 38-year-old aerospace engineering professor at Rutgers University has been named president of the Consortium for Scientific Computing, which operates the John von Neumann Supercomputer Center.

Doyle D. Knight will take office as consortium president October 1. He succeeds Joseph F. Traub, who is returning to Columbia University as an endowed professor and chairman of the Department of Computer Science.

Princeton University, Rutgers and the Institute for Advanced Study are among the 13 members of the Consortium for Scientific Computing. Others are the Universities of Arizona, Colorado, Pennsylvania and Rochester as well as Brown, Columbia and Harvard Universities, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Pennsylvania State University and New York University.

The consortium's proposal for a supercomputer center was one of five selected by the

WOR Radio Personalities Will Be Here Thursday for "Live Remote" Broadcast

WOR Radio will broadcast live from the green in front of the Nassau Inn on Thursday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

WOR is known as a personality station because of the regular newscasters and talk show hosts who have been identified over the years with particular programming slots. WOR will bring many of these celebrities to Princeton for their regular broadcasts during the day.

Among the radio personalities who will be transported by helicopter and limousine from New York are John A. Gambling of "Rambling with Gambling" fame and son John R.; George Meade, who reports traffic conditions from a WOR helicopter; Sherry Henry, who is expected to interview Gov. Kean between 10 and 11; Joan Hamburg, WOR's consumer affairs specialist;

Also, Karen Blaker, psychotherapist and host of the call-in show, "Ask Dr. Blaker"; Joe Franklin, who reminisces about people in the entertainment world in his "Memory Lane" half-hour; Ralph Snodsmith, horticulturalist who answers gardening questions; and Bernard Meltzer, host of a call-in program from 3 to 6 who tackles any question relating to "affairs of the heart and affairs of the pocket-book."

The "live remote," as it is called in radio parlance, is part of the station's annual week-long Salute to the Garden

State. WOR began broadcasting at Bamberger's Department Store in Newark in 1922, and the station feels a special allegiance to New Jersey, where 40 percent of its listening audience lives.

The station's first live remote was a four-day marathon from a balcony in New York City's Grand Central Station in 1977. The idea was to take WOR out of the studio and to give people a chance to meet the radio personalities and to watch a live broadcast. A somewhat risky and expensive venture, it drew great crowds and was deemed a success.

In the years following, WOR has done live remotes from Long Island and upstate New York as well as the Garden

State Art Center, the Meadowlands and the Paramus Mall. Last year's live broadcast from Flemington drew crowds of 2,500 or 20,000, depending on which press release you read, and the station is clearly expecting the Princeton broadcast to be as successful.

Mary Recchia, director of advertising and promotion, calls the annual live remote "a costly undertaking and the largest single investment" the station makes. To offset the cost, area business are solicited for advertising "spots" which will replace regular advertising for a full week. Three different "discounted" plans, ranging from

Rental Housing

However, the only road access to the property is through wetlands, said E. Karin Slaby, executive director of the Housing Authority. She said that there have been discussions with the Unitarian Church on constructing a right of way through its parking lot, but that nothing has been worked out.

The Housing Authority originally filed its grant application with HUD in 1984. At that time, Borough land was available for the housing. The application, however, was rejected, and the Borough has since targeted its available land for its own lease-purchase affordable housing program.

In October, 1986, HUD reversed its decision and approved the grant request. The move surprised most observers because there has been very little federal money available over the past few years for housing the poor.

"There is a drastic need for this housing," says Ms. Slaby. "We have about 175 applications on our waiting list, dating back to 1980, for low-income rental family housing. And everyone on the list either lives or works in Princeton."

HUD guidelines for this type of family housing show that a family of four, for example, cannot have an income exceeding $16,950.

Mayor Sigmund said she would prefer the housing to be built closer to the center of town than the sewer operating fields. "But given the overwhelming nature of the need for more low and moderate income housing in town, it is better to build out there rather than turn down some of the last money for this housing available in the United States."

She suggested that the Township use some of its affordable housing trust fund money to purchase the right of way into the property on Route 206. "On Ettl Farm alone, more than a million dollars will be available for lower income housing," she said. "Why not use the money to buy land in the Township for the HUD project or purchase access to the 206 property?"

In the meantime, Ms. Slaby is worried about the possible loss of the money — and the housing it would buy. "We can't tell HUD that in a year or so we will get land," she said. "If we don't come up with something soon, HUD will not keep telling us to keep looking."

National Science Foundation in 1985, when the John von Neumann Center was established. The center is supported by commitments over five years of $69.2 million from the National Science Foundation and $12 million from the New Jersey Commission on Science and Technology.

Located in the Princeton Forrestal Center, the supercomputer center houses two Cyber 205 supercomputers, highly sophisticated machines more than 100 times faster than the minicomputers now used by many scientists. The center also operates what is said to be the fastest supercomputer network in the world, linking the consortium institutions by high-speed data links to the computers at the center.

This fall, an ETA-10, the first of a new generation of supercomputers, will be installed at the center. The ETA-10 is expected to have an eventual capability of 10 billion operations per second and to be more than 25 times faster than the present Cyber 205 system. Its memory will be 2.4 million bytes, which is 72 times greater than the memory of each of the two Cyber 205s.

Dr. Knight has been a trustee of the consortium from its inception in 1984. He helped develop the supercomputer center proposal that won funding from the National Science Foundation in 1985 and has been involved in practically every aspect of the center's activities since then.

"The John von Neumann Center offers a singular opportunity for the advancement of computational science and engineering in the United States," Dr. Knight said in a prepared statement. "As envisioned in our original proposal, the center will nurture and enhance computational research groups in a broad range of disciplines."

A major emphasis of the center will be "interactive visualization," the transformation of the immense quantity of numbers generated by the center's supercomputers into high-resolution color images. This visualization is believed to be essential in assimilating the information created by the center and relevant to a wide variety of research disciplines.

Dr. Knight explained that a computational chemist will be able to "visualize" a molecule in real time, for instance. And a fluid dynamicist will be able to "walk through" the flow generated by his or her numerical simulation.

With the ETA-10, the center is also expected to increase industrial participation by expanding research partnerships with industry. Several New Jersey firms presently use the center, and the new president said he is "deeply interested" in expanding this area.

A resident of Monroe Township, Dr. Knight has been a member of the Rutgers College of Engineering faculty since 1977, when he was appointed an assistant professor in the Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering Department. He became an associate professor in 1981 and a full professor in 1985. He earned a B.A. degree from Occidental College and a B.S., master's degree and Ph.D. in aeronautics from the California Institute of Technology.

Before coming to Rutgers, he was an aeronautical engineer at the U.S. Air Force Aerospace Research Laboratory in Ohio and a research fellow in mathematics at Cal Tech. Dr. Knight has research contracts with the Air Force Office of Scientific Research, the Air Force Wright Aeronautical Laboratories and the Office of Naval Research.

He is one of a relatively new breed of scientists called computational fluid dynamicists, who investigate the motion of fluids, both liquid and gas, using numerical simulations on a computer. Dr. Knight's specialties in this field are high-speed aerodynamics and propulsion.

He developed a numerical algorithm for the solution of problems encountered in complex high-speed flows. The method has application to the flight of high-speed aircraft, and his computer programs are presently in use by a number of U.S. aerospace companies.

He also helped develop a model of flow fields for what scientists call "three-dimensional shock wave turbulent boundary layer interaction," a phenomenon common in supersonic flight. This research is heavily mathematical, involving trillions of computations and tens of hours of time on current Class VI computers.

He and his research associates used the Cyber 205 supercomputers at the von Neumann Center and at other locations. As consortium president, he intends to continue his research, using the new ETA-10.

Of the five computing centers in the United States funded by the National Science Foundation, the John von Neumann Center will be the first to install an ETA-10.

Palmer Square Agrees To Drop Sign Lawsuit

Palmer Square Limited will withdraw its lawsuit challenging the Borough's right to mandate the typeface used by stores on Palmer Square West. Warehouse, which had refused to comply with the Borough ordinance specifying the use of Caslon Old Style Italic Upper Case, is now expected to replace its non-conforming sign with a conforming one.

In early July, Superior Court Judge Paul Levy dismissed four of five complaints brought by Palmer Square Limited, a subsidiary of Collins Development Corp.

The fifth complaint, which had been scheduled to be heard by Judge Levy on September 11, alleged that the Borough's sign ordinance infringed on rights to free speech guaranteed by the First Amendment.

The suit, alleging that signage restrictions in Palmer Square West were invalid, unreasonable and unconstitutional, was filed by Palmer Square Ltd. on December 19, 1986.

The typeface restriction, which is contained in the Borough's ordinance establishing historic districts and an Historic Preservation Review Committee, applies only to recent stores on Palmer Square West. Pre-existing store signs, as well as store signs on Palmer Square East, are not covered by the ordinance.

Mayor Sigmund said that the dismissal of the suit allows the Borough to be confident that its attempts at preserving its historic character have been guaranteed.

"I sincerely believe that the commercial viability of Palmer Square will be enhanced by the continued use of the traditional beautiful old lettering on the buildings along Palmer Square West," said the mayor. "The Square will be a lovely and welcome oasis in the desert of trendiness developing in the pseudo-Princeton out on Route 1."

Lawsuit Is Averted: Borough, Collins Agree

Attorneys for Princeton Borough and Palmer Square Limited have worked out a compromise agreement over who will pay for upcoming sewer and road repairs on Hulfish and Witherspoon Streets. The agreement was expected to be presented to Mayor and Council for approval at its Tuesday, August 25, meeting.

The dispute between the Borough and its major developer surfaced early this month. It centered on who should foot the bill for sewer line replacement on Witherspoon and Hulfish Streets and road rehabilitation on Hulfish.

The agreement, worked out earlier this week, states that the Borough will be responsible for all work relating to the replacement and installation of the sanitary sewer line in Witherspoon Street.

Originally, the Borough had wanted Palmer Square to pay for the increase in the width of the line from eight to ten inches because, according to Borough Engineer Carl Peters, the additional flow would be contributed to Collins additions.

Palmer Square will be responsible, according to the agreement, for all work relating to the replacement and installation of the sanitary sewer lines and storm drain lines in Hulfish Street between Witherspoon and Chambers Streets. Palmer Square had originally wanted to replace only the lines between Witherspoon and John Streets.

Palmer Square will replace all curbs and sidewalks on the south side of Hulfish Street that are disturbed or damaged by construction.

The Borough will be responsible for the removal of the remainder of the undisturbed asphalt from Chambers to Witherspoon Streets and the installation of a new full-width road base. The cost of this work will be divided equally between the Borough and Palmer

Response to Beach Pollution

Beach closings, dolphin deaths, and debris washed ashore have brought renewed attention to the problems facing New Jersey's shoreline.

State Attorney General W. Cary Edwards is leading a state and federal probe of the garbage slick which washed up fecal matter and hospital waste and caused Ocean County beach closings. The U.S. Coast Guard, Environmental Protection Agency and the state Department of Environmental Protection are among those helping in the investigation.

The state senate Special Committee on Coastal and Ocean Pollution began hearings on the dumping this week.

A new authority, the New Jersey Coastal Commission, is being formed by the state to address ocean issues.

Following a rash of reports of illness linked to ocean swimming, the state Health Department is conducting a survey of related sicknesses.

Settlement with Trash Haulers

The state Board of Public Utilities came to an agreement with private haulers last week, ending a dispute over increased dumping fees.

Many haulers who pay cash to dump at the Edgeboro landfill in East Brunswick were turned away when they could not pay the 200-300 per cent increase in dumping fees. The BPU had granted the landfill an emergency $32.1 million rate increase which went into effect on August 14.

The BPU agreed to allow haulers to dump at the old rate until October 1 when the new rate will be enforced. Haulers may increase fees to customers if the increase is approved by the BPU. Industry spokesmen reported that about 40 per cent of the trash in Somerset, Middlesex, Union, and Morris Counties was uncollected during the week-long dispute.

Break for Toxpoys

The state assembly's Republican majority proposed a $100 million tax relief plan last week, only 2½ weeks after the state senate Democratic majority proposed a $90 million plan.

Offered in response to the state's current budget surplus, the Democrat's plan offers permanent tax relief while the Republican plan is a larger, one-time only tax break. Governor Kean is supportive of a tax relief response but has not yet backed either plan.

State lawmakers hope to have a tax relief program in place before election day.

Square, and will be completed on or before November 15.

Palmer Square will then pay for the installation of new curbs and sidewalks along the north side of Hulfish Street, and the Borough will pay for the paving of the street.

Little Boy Is Hit by Van While Riding His Bicycle

Seven-year-old John Cunningham, 1324 Stuart Road, was hit by a van when he rode his bike out of his driveway onto Stuart Road at about 11 a.m. on August 20. Thrown 48 feet by the impact, the boy was taken to the Medical Center for treatment and released the same day.

The van, owned by Ramp Dry Cleaning of Hightstown, was driven by William Parks, 69, of Pennington. The vehicle was traveling eastbound on Stuart Road at about 20 m.p.h. when the boy suddenly entered the roadway. The child was thrown into the opposite side of the roadway and the bicycle was dragged under the vehicle for 52 feet.

Borough Police Officer Assaulted In Township

Detective John D. Reading of the Borough Police Department was assaulted while on duty in plain clothes with Borough Detective Michael Taylor at 11:20 p.m. on August 19 at the intersection of Leigh Avenue and John Street in the Township.

Herbert Broadway, Jr., was arrested for shouting at and pushing Det. Reading. The police officers were stopping a noisy crowd about 50 yards from the Borough-Township border when the incident occurred.

Broadway was released the next morning on $350 bail.

Thieves and Vandals Target Parking Lots

A 1985 Corvette owned by a Cherry Valley Road resident was broken into at Community Park South lot, near the softball fields, Sunday afternoon, August 16. Thieves took a $300 Escort radar detector and a baseball cap while the car's owner participated in a softball tournament.

At the Community Park Pool lot, vandals scratched the glass of the windshield and driver's side window of a car owned by a Princeton Junction resident. The robbery took place at 4 a.m. on Friday. Nissan's window damage was estimated at about $300.

In a similar incident on Sunday afternoon in the Borough, the glass of the driver's side window of a 1987 Toyota was scratched with a sharp object. Owned by a Trenton resident, the car was in the Franklin Avenue parking lot at the Medical Center.

A van parked in the same hospital lot was broken into on Sunday. Thieves used a rock to break a window of the van and removed a $120 Sony black-and-white TV. The vehicle was owned by a Langhorne, Pa., company.

A bicycle was stolen from a Redding Circle resident when it was parked, unlocked, in front of a Butternut Row home on the evening of August 19. The bike was valued at $50.

Resident's Screams Scare Off Robbers

A 31-year-old Bank Street resident scared off two burglars when she saw their moving shadows in the kitchen and screamed.

The two males ran off with a $350 J.C. Penney microwave

New Jersey Transit Donates Van As Interim Transport for Elm Court

Residents of Elm Court, the housing complex for the elderly and handicapped on Elm Road, will soon have a van to help with transportation around town. Donated by New Jersey Transit, this will be used as an interim vehicle until the arrival of a long-promised new van. After many delays, this federally funded new vehicle is now scheduled to arrive early in 1988.

Borough Council is expected, at its Tuesday, August 25 meeting, to allocate $900 toward the repair of the interim van. Once the new van arrives, the interim one will be used as back-up transportation for residents of Elm Court as well as for other elderly and handicapped in Princeton.

The van will run on a fixed route through town, beginning at Elm Court and making stops at such places as the Medical Center, shopping center, Davidson's, the library, and Palmer Square. It will also serve the elderly and handicapped residents of the John-Witherspoon neighborhood.

The exact route will be determined in time for the September 22 meeting of the Mercer County Board of Freeholders, which must approve it. This would be the first fixed route to be operated by TRADE, the county-run transportation system for the elderly and handicapped.

The van is expected to operate from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. five days a week, and will be the first public transportation available in the John-Witherspoon area since the loop bus was discontinued.

If the route is approved by the freeholders, van service is expected to begin October 13.

Smoke, But No Fire In Two Incidents Here

The hot tip of a welding unit set some heavy work clothes smoldering in the basement of the Engineering Quad at 12:35 a.m. on August 19. The Borough police, the fire department and the department of public safety at the University responded to the call.

In another smoke incident, the fire chief and a fire truck responded to a report of smoke at 99 Alexander Street. The smoke was caused when a maintenance person turned the furnace on while workmen were making repairs to the chimney.

Two New Police Officers Will Join Borough Force

Lori A. Sannella, 14 Lawrence Drive, Lawrenceville, was to be appointed to the Borough police force by Mayor and Council on Tuesday night at Borough Council meeting. She will join two other probationary officers — William Irion, who was appointed on August 11, and Edward George, who is working dispatch for the police department — for scheduled training at the N.J. State Police Academy at Sea Girt. Ms. Sannella is the third woman to join the Borough police force, although one female officer has since left the force to go to law school.

Two Cars Are Damaged While Parked at Home

Both cars owned by a Broadmead family were damaged while parked at home overnight on Friday. The luggage rack was ripped off of one car and thrown through the window of another car, breaking the rack and smashing the left front car window.

In another case of criminal mischief, a hole was made in the plastic bumper guard of a 1986 Pontiac parked in the Maclean Street parking lot on August 19. A 21-year-old Trenton resident discovered the damage after the car had been parked in the lot from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

A rock was thrown through the driver's-side window of a 1976 Mercury Capri parked on Franklin Avenue last Friday evening. The car is owned by a New Brunswick resident.

Woman Is Assaulted In Community Pool Lot

Kimberly Arnott, 19, 11 Henderson Avenue, has pressed charges against Alfred Perna, 46, 107 Mountain Avenue, for assaulting her in the Community Park Pool parking lot on Sunday night. Ms. Arnott was grabbed around the neck, punched in the face, and injured in the right hand. She was treated at the Medical Center before coming to Township Police headquarters to sign a complaint.

Pedestrian, 40, Molested By Wiggins Street Jogger

A 40-year-old Borough resident was molested near the corner of Jefferson and Wiggins Streets at about 9:00 on Friday night. A white male, in his early 20's ran up, fondled the Listen, Lynn... I know you're busy but we have to go to the new Cohoes that just opened.

What's Cohoes, Sarah?

A wonderful store that just opened in that new Princeton MarketFair on Route 1....

But what is Cohoes?

Well, it's unique! I've shopped the original New York store when we go to Saratoga in August. It has designer labels and wonderful fashions. Terrific bags. Jewelry you don't see everywhere. A great shoe department. Menswear too. And all at prices that save you money everyday so you don't have to wait for a sale.

It doesn't have those community dressing rooms does it? You know I....

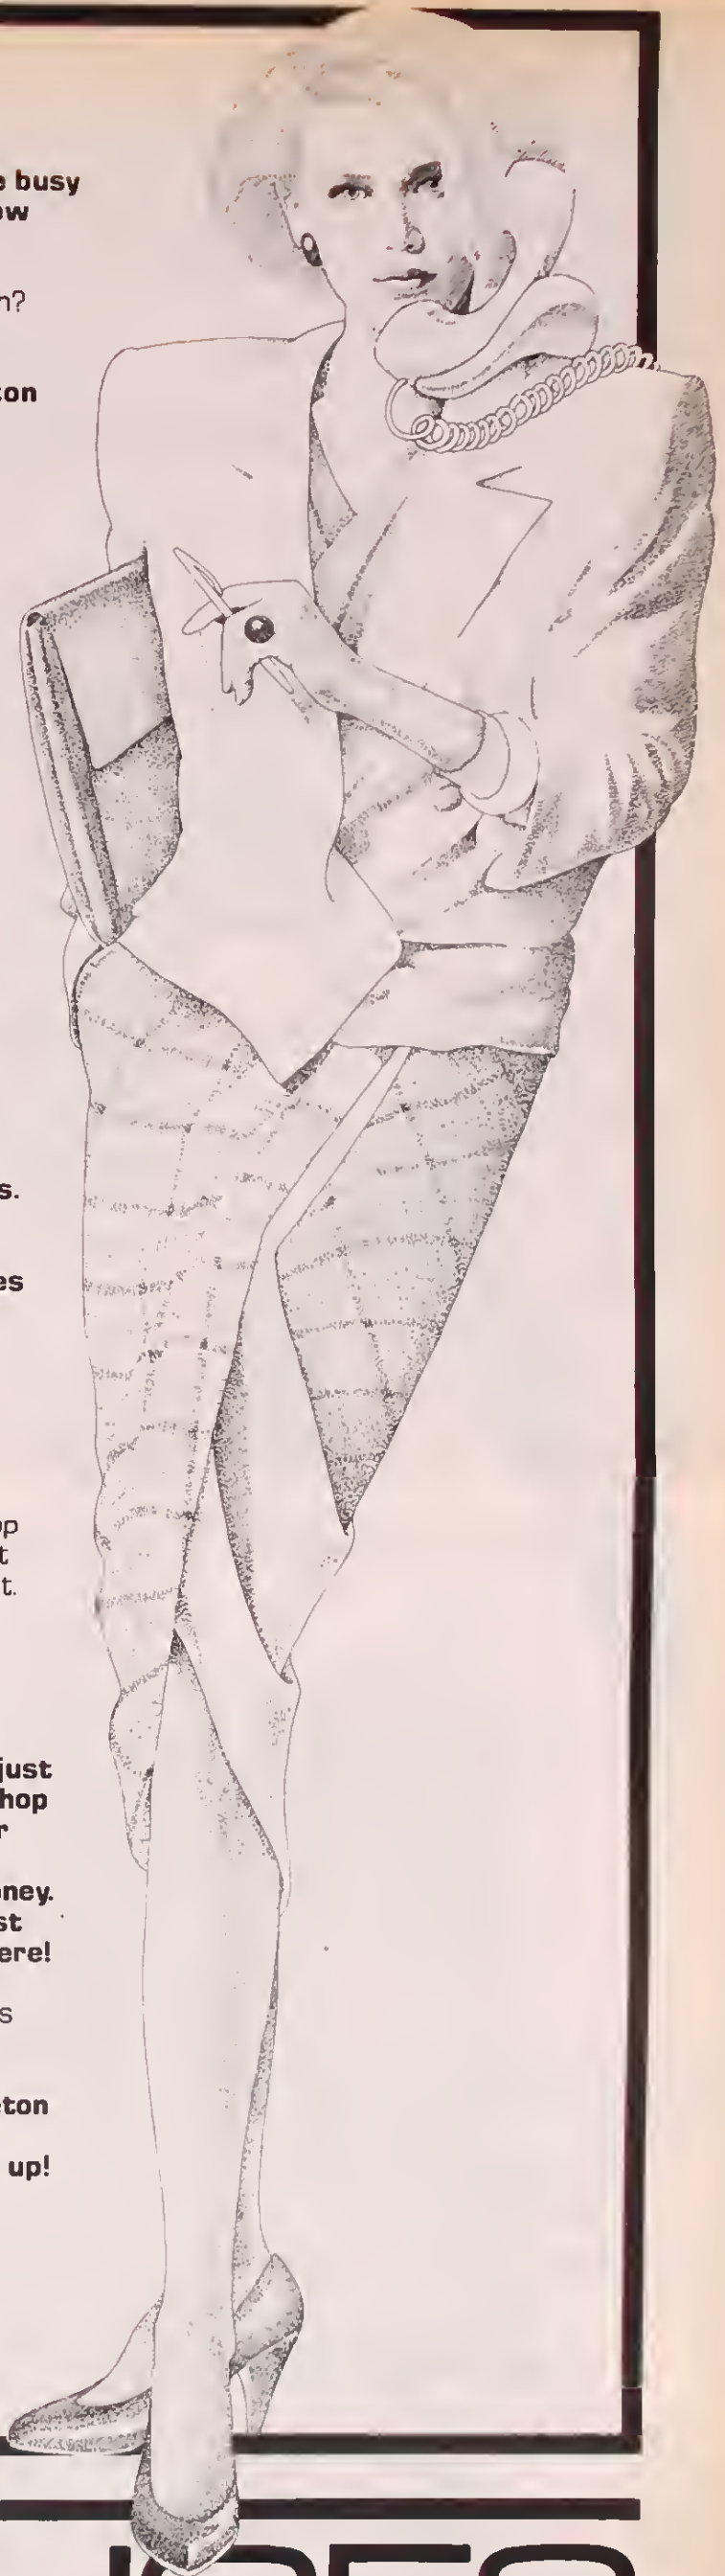

Cohoes isn't like that at all! It has private dressing rooms. Salespeople who help you. And Cohoes doesn't carry seconds or last year's clothes... only the latest and the best. Plus the store is beautiful so it makes me feel good to go there.

I sure could use that! With the job and the kids, I don't get to shop much and when I do, it seems to wear me out. The stores are either too big or too small so I have to run around alot...

Then you'll love Cohoes. It's just the right size. Plus you can shop all over the store and pay for everything in one place. Saves you time as well as money. But you know what's the best part? You'll enjoy shopping there!

Then let's go. Where is Cohoes located?

Cohoes is in that new Princeton MarketFair on Route 1 at Carnegie Center. I'll pick you up!

woman and ran off. As she continued to Wiggins Street, the man ran up again, made suggestive comments, touched her again and ran away.

Borough Police Lieutenant Hanley said the man was described as about 6-2, 220 lbs., wearing dark shorts, bare-chested, with a T-shirt wrapped around his head like a jogger's headband.

Local Residents Charged In Several Drug Arrests

Laurent Wainer, 19, Bayberry Road, was arrested for possession of a substance suspected to be marijuana at 1:50 a.m. on August 19, in the parking lot at Marquand Park.

PHS Sports Physicats Set

Physical examinations for fall sports at Princeton High School will be given from 9 to noon and 1 to 3 on August 26-27, and September 8 and from 9 to noon on September 9.

Appointments can be made by calling the high school office at 683-4480 between 9 and 2. Forms for private physical examinations are also available at the main office.

A juvenile from Belle Mead was arrested on Stockton Street on Friday night at 10:50 p.m. for possession of marijuana.

Three young Princeton residents were charged with possession of hashish and drug paraphernalia at 2 a.m. on August 23. The three — Brian Long, 23, of Tulane Street, Shiela MacDonald, 22, of Maple Street, and Ernesto Pirone, 23, of Ewing Street — were arrested after their vehicle was stopped for erratic driving on Walnut Lane. Police found hashish and pipes in the car.

Senior Olympics Set For September 10th

The Recreation Department and the Senior Resource Center will hold the fourth annual Senior Olympics, jointly sponsored by Landau's and Princeton University, on Thursday, September 10, at Community Park Complex beginning at 9 a.m. The rain date will be the following day, September 11.

The Senior Olympics is open to all Princeton residents who are 60 or older. There is no registration fee or admission fee.

Seniors will have the opportunity to compete in the following sporting events: croquet, bocce, swimming, Frisbee, softball throw, golf, tennis and a walking race. New this year to the games will be checkers. There will be one general checkers competition for all ages over 60, beginning at 10 a.m. All other events will be divided into age groups, with separate competitions for ages 60-64, 65-69 and 70 and older.

"The philosophy of the Senior Olympics is to promote awareness of physical fitness for older adults," said Jocelyn Helm, director of the Senior Resource Center. "As we grow older," she continued, "we stop moving. We turn 65 and it's as though we have some dread disease called old age. We're suddenly given a license to become spectators instead of doers. This doesn't have to happen. Seniors can find pleasure in physical expression."

Dr. Robert Butler, renowned geriatrician, has said that "one half hour of exercise is equal to one tranquilizer."

"Awards in most of the events will be given for skill rather than speed. We're promoting fitness and the fun of sport," added Tom Mladenetz, program supervisor, Recreation Department.

In addition to the athletic events, the program will include lunch provided by Rent-A-Chef Caterers, Inc. Lunch and awards will be given to all participants.

Those serving on the planning committee are Mr. Mladenetz, Mrs. Helm, Robert Sinkler, Gillian Godfrey, Marianne Jasien and Marcia Hillard. All interested seniors should pre-register by calling the Senior Resource Center, 924-7108, or the Recreation Department, 921-9480. Volunteers are needed to help run events.

Back Hoe Hits Gas Line

Police closed Washington Road for one hour on Tuesday after a back hoe hit a gas line and caused a major leak near McCosh Hall on the University Campus. There were no explosions, fires, or injuries.

A member of the Princeton Fire Department called the leak into the Borough police shortly after noon. The Borough Police, Princeton Fire Department, University Department of Public Safety, First Aid and Rescue Squad, and the Hazardous Material Team from Lawrenceville were on the scene. The leak was serious enough to warrant closing Washington Road from Faculty to William Streets and Prospect from Olden to Washington Streets for one hour, according to Borough Police Lieutenant Pete Hanley.

Public Service Electric and Gas shut off the leak and the road was reopened around 1:00 p.m.

Pacesetters Announced For United Way Drive

John Baker, campaign chairman of the United Way - Red Cross campaign of the Princeton Area Communities, has announced that a record seven area companies have agreed to begin their United Way campaigns before the general drive begins in October in order "to provide models to which other companies can aspire."

American Cyanamid Company - Agricultural Division, Center for Health Affairs, FMC Corporation, Gallup & Robinson, Johnson & Higgins, Squibb Corporation, and Total Research have agreed to serve as Pacesetter companies for the United Way.

Together, these companies, which range from more than 1,700 employees to fewer than 50, employ more than 3,600 people. Last year, they contributed nearly $254,000 to the drive.

The general drive will kick off October 1. Before that time the Pacesetters will have completed their campaigns and announced their results to the community. United Way volunteers are hoping that their results will motivate other companies to conduct the best campaigns possible.

The company coordinators for each of the Pacesetters are: Dave Cortez, American Cyanamid; Ina Myers, Center for Health Affairs; Mike Pinsky, FMC; Joanne Berkley, Gallup & Robinson; Tom Loughrey, Johnson & Higgins; Elizabeth Reeder, Squibb; and Connie Sohl and Katherine Little, Total Research.

This year's campaign is being held on behalf of 28 area agencies that provide human care services to the people who live or work in those communities of Mercer, Middlesex and Somerset counties that comprise the greater Princeton area.

SAT Review Course Set
To Begin in Princeton

The Stanley H. Kaplan Educational Center is currently enrolling students for classes that will form in September. The fall class schedule at the Kaplan Center will prepare students for the November Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT).

Students will attend 11 four-hour sessions during the eight-week course, which will begin with a computer diagnostic evaluation. The course also includes a four-hour workshop designed to aid students in learning the college admissions process and how to compare colleges.

For further information, call (201) 238-2230.

Welcoming Is Planned
At Riverside School

A Riverside School Welcoming Get-Together for all kindergarten parents and parents new to the school will be held at 9 a.m. on Thursday, September 3, at the Riverside School playground. Rain date is Friday. Children are welcome.

Parents will have the opportunity to meet each other, Principal Bill Cirullo, and the school's secretaries. School tours will be given.

For additional information, call Mimi Marum at 921-8493.

Few Children Getting Social Security Numbers

Only one in five New Jersey children in the 5-15 year age group has obtained a Social Security number this fiscal year, even though parents will be asked to list that number on their 1987 federal tax return.

According to the Newark District Office of the Internal Revenue Service, if parents plan to claim children as dependents and benefit from a personal exemption that has risen from $1,080 in 1986 to $1,900 in 1987, children's Social Security numbers are required.

The Social Security Administration has issued only 44,920 cards to children in this age group between October 1, 1986, and July 7, 1987, out of an estimated 242,000 in New Jersey.

The IRS urges parents to get cards for their children soon to avoid the inevitable last-minute rush. They should bring the child's original birth certificate and another original proof, such as a library card or immunization certificate, to the nearest Social Security office. Parents who plan to sign the application on behalf of their child will be asked to provide a proof of identity, usually a driver's license.

Congress imposed the new requirement to ensure that dependents were validly claimed.

Nearby Social Security offices are located in Trenton, 402 East State Street (the old Post Office building); New Brunswick, 52 Charles Street; and south of the Somerville Circle in Raritan, Granetz Plaza, Route 206.

Mercer County College Opens Fall Registration

Mercer County Community College will hold registration for its 10-week session from September 8 through October 1. Late fees will be applied after October 1 and classes begin October 6.

Students wishing to register for the 15-week session beginning August 31 may still register but will be charged a late fee.

Both sessions cover the same material and offer the same credits and differ only in the

Too Late for W. Windsor: Will Princeton Be Next?

To the Editor of Town Topics: Last night I visited the new Market Fair and Canal Pointe on Route 1, attracted by the offer of fireworks and a concert by the New Jersey Pops. A breathless young mistress of ceremonies heaped praise upon the hard-working officials of West Windsor Township for making the new mall possible. I say, shame on them.

Fifteen years ago, according to TOWN TOPICS, West Windsor officials rejected a K-Mart on Route 1 on the grounds that the development would be "detrimental to the rural and residential character of the area," and would create problems of "pollution and unwanted traffic...." They were right the first time.

The newest mall adds nothing to our region that is not, alas, already amply available. Of course, it does save a little driving for residents of Canal (why not Canale?) Pointe who may feel the need for yet another enclosed space where consumers can wander in a permanent state of stupefaction.

And maybe there are some Princetonians who cannot live without more triple-priced sweater outlets, or crave industrial food with gourmet names. But no one interested in the quality of life is likely to find any good news in this most recent desecration of the environment.

It is too late for West Windsor, which has joined the schlock people. Will Princeton be next? Calton Holmes, threatening lawsuits, is trying to coerce the community into destroying the Battlefield Park district by dumping at least 300 residential units on the historic White Farm. If you want to see what high-density junk will look like in Princeton, go visit Canal Pointe and Market Fair.

We will be living with these man-made disasters long after the developers take their money and run.

How do we get public officials with the courage and wisdom to say no?

A Lesson to Be Learned From Harrison St. Bridge

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would hope that the Harrison Street bridge holds a lesson to be learned — the lesson being that bridges are designed to carry a certain weight. When that weight limit is constantly exceeded by overweight vehicles, the bridge is damaged, in the case of Harrison Street, beyond repair.

The closing, repairing, rebuilding of so many bridges in this area should tell us something. I'm not sure that it has.

There is a bridge on The Great Road, just north of the intersection of The Great Road and Mountain Avenue. This bridge was built in 1963, replacing an old bridge. It has always had a weight limit of 15 tons, but no one paid much attention to it because it wasn't posted.

Now it is posted with signs saying "15 ton load limit," and so far no one is paying much attention to that. Does this bridge too have to suffer irrevocable damage before its weight limit is respected and enforced?

Complaints about the overweight traffic bring answers such as "it's temporary." Life, after all, in its essence, is "temporary," and residents of the Township who use this bridge may find their lives drastically altered by the continued abuse of this bridge. Imagine life with The Great Road closed.

Princeton is not an island unto itself; it is traversed daily by very heavy construction vehicles. Princeton may become an island yet as one by one all bridges leading in and out of town are forced to be closed for repairs and rebuilding.

Dangerous Intersection Needs a Traffic Light

To the Editor of Town Topics: Recently I was involved in an

I proceeded slowly to cross the intersection. The next thing I knew, my car was spinning around. I had come in contact with the left rear end of a bus. There was very little damage to the bus; my car was totaled, fortunately, I was not. The bus driver saw me at the stop sign, but since he had the right of way, had proceeded across the intersection.

The reason I could not see him was because the Princeton Regional Planning Board had allowed a resident to build a wall, which hid from view vehicles crossing Mt. Lucas Road. The police officer and several people who came to my assistance told me there had been several accidents at this intersection and they had tried to get a stop light put up, to no avail.

My reason for sending this letter is to acquaint motorists with this situation and get the Planning Board to work on this before someone is killed.

Residents of Penns Neck Oppose Rt. 1 Overpass

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As President of the Penns Neck Residents Association, I was shocked and totally dismayed to read that Republican Freeholder candidate Paul Kramer said in a newspaper on July 31 that "the lights along Route One must be removed to expedite traffic flow, and one such location for an overpass that would allow the removal of a light is at Penns Neck Village."

The residents of the historic village of Penns Neck do not want their homes, church and cemetery destroyed by the construction of an overpass. We intend to make that abundantly clear to Mr. Kramer on November 3rd.

the creation and enjoyment of artistic handwork.

Among the fall courses are quilting, silkscreen, needlepoint, smocking, knitting and "scherenschnitte," the art of scissors-cutting. The Guild also offers one-session workshops in basketry, machine applique and pressed-flower design. Youth classes include print-making, sculpture, studio art and puppetry.

Weaving, a new offering for adults, explores design on a four-harness loom. Lore Lindenfield, a weaving teacher for ten years with many shows to her credit, will lead the class on Monday evenings from 7 to 9:30, beginning September 21. Looms may be rented for home use while attending class.

The Artisans Guild Gallery will open September 14 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Located in Bramwell House, adjacent to the YWCA on Paul Robeson Place, the Gallery offers original designs by area crafters who are invited to submit their work for consignment.

The Guild welcomes new members, providing them working sessions on Tuesday afternoons, monthly potluck suppers, newsletters and special events.

For more information, call the Artisans Guild, 924-0501, or the YWCA, 924-5571.

Experiences Recounted By Victims of Strokes

To mark its 10th anniversary three years ago, the Mercer County Stroke Club embarked on a special project — an anthology of life histories of its members.

The results have been published in a paper-bound unpaginated volume called A Stroke Is Not the End. The contents include 34 life stories, plus a history of the club, an outline on how to organize a stroke club, and the names of other clubs and resources in New Jersey. One chapter gives facts about strokes and the warning signs.

There is also a section on "Wheelchair Etiquette" — the do's and don'ts of how to treat someone who is wheelchair-bound. "Don't demean or patronize the wheelchair user by patting him or her on the head" is one of the suggestions.

The heart of the book, however, is in the individual stories: testimonies of courage and frustration, tales of life before, during and after the stroke. Some have been written or dictated by the stroke victim, others are the handwork of the spouse. They range from lengthy and clinically detailed to very short, as if there are no words which can adequately describe the experience.

Life Skills for All. One husband writes movingly — even humorously — of how unprepared he was for taking over the household chores his wife had always done so well. "I have come to the conclusion that life skills such as cooking, sewing, cleaning and home finances, should be included in the school curriculum for boys as well as girls," he remarks. "Anyone can suddenly become ill, and it eases the pain of the situation if the well partner is able to cope without trauma."

A stroke can strike at any age, as the tale of an 18-month-old boy included in this collection testifies. Through extensive therapy, both at home and at Merwick, this lad gradually recovered the use of his paralyzed right arm and leg. By the time he was five and went off to kindergarten, he seemed no different from the other children getting on the bus, his mother writes.

"Looking back I think that we, the adults in his life, have had a much more difficult time coming to terms with all that has happened," she says. "Brian's story is far from over. We will forever want to make things easier for him and wonder whether his not doing something is due to inability or unwillingness."

Advice for Others. Not all the stories have happy endings, but those who have achieved new levels of understanding of themselves and others, in the process of coming to terms with the stroke and disability afterwards, offer counsel to other stroke victims. "Do as much as you can for yourself, BUT don't be reluctant to ask for help, even from perfect strangers," writes one woman. "Most people want to help, but need you to make the request."

The Stroke Club itself is cited in several stories as being invaluable in bringing members out of isolation by giving them supportive understanding and social contact with others who are similarly afflicted. Founded by Mrs. George Knaefler in 1973, the year after her husband died of complications following a stroke, the Mercer County Stroke Club is also a boon for the family and friends of stroke victims. It meets the first Wednesday of every month, January to June, from 11 to 1 in the lounge of the Unitarian Church.

From an initial membership of four, the club has grown to more than 80 members. They represent a wide age range and many backgrounds, but all know from personal experience what William Sagen, M.D., writes in the preface: "Those people who have had a stroke are truly unique in that they have had a 'cerebral' experience in which perhaps for the first time they appreciate the intricate control which the brain exerts over all functions of the body."

Benjamin Wright, M.D., has written a brief introduction to the book, as has Gloria Petty, executive director for 10 years of the Mercer County chapter of the American Heart Association. Jeanne Silvester, an interviewer with radio station WHWH, assisted in the writing, and students at Princeton High School and the Mercer County Vocational School typed the drafts.

The book was printed by LDH Printing, and copies are available at $10 by calling Mrs. Knaefler, 924-2299.

Dr. Richard A. Mann of West Windsor, assistant professor of medicine at the Robert Wood Johnson Medical School of the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, is one of six researchers in the nation to receive a Young Investigator Award from the National Kidney Foundation.

The grant, amounting to $30,000 over a two-year period, will enable the nephrologist to study the role of the immune system in kidney diseases. One of the diseases he is studying is lupus nephritis, a potentially fatal disease. The other is interstitial nephritis, a collection of diseases, all of which involve injury to tissue within the kidney. The latter disease is sometimes reversible, and therefore is not necessarily fatal.

Dr. Mann indicated that it is only within the last five to 10 years that scientists have learned nearly all diseases of the kidney are related to the immune system. He added that this is a fertile field for study because few researchers are trained in both immunology and the kidney.

In addition to the Young Investigator's Award, Dr. Mann has recently received a $23,000 grant from the Foundation of UMDNJ; $19,000 from the National Kidney Foundation Fellowship to sponsor a Fellow; a $12,000 general research support grant from the federal government; and a $10,000 grant from the National Kidney Foundation of New York-New Jersey. He is this year's recipient of the outstanding teaching attending award at Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital.

Judith T. Brendel, 23 Erdman Avenue, was one of 20 teachers selected from throughout New Jersey to participate in a summer institute at Rutgers University on the teaching of probability and statistics. The teachers explored statistics and probability concepts, and techniques for teaching these concepts.

Mrs. Brendel is a former art teacher in Bergen County. For the past three years she has been a math teacher at Franklin Township High School in Somerset.

Ellen Randall, a native of Princeton, has joined InterArch as a project architect. InterArch is an architectural services, interior design and space planning firm based in Cherry Hill.

Prior to her present position, Ms. Randall served as project manager with a Philadelphia architectural firm and earlier served in a similar capacity with a Trenton company of architects and planners.

Ms. Randall has a B.A. degree in art history from the University of Pennsylvania and a master of architecture degree from Carnegie-Mellon University.

When he sells his house in Skillman, Chief Pinelli will say goodbye to people-clogged, traffic-clogged New Jersey and head for the quiet and openness of Montana, a state whose 800,000 inhabitants number ten times fewer than those of New Jersey in an area that is more than 20 times bigger. He owns a fenced-in, 40-acre piece of land near St. Ignatius, a small town of 800 some 40 miles north of Missoula in northwest Montana.

For one who has always liked to hunt and fish, there are plenty of attractions waiting. Thirty miles from St. Ignatius is the largest freshwater lake west of the Mississippi — 28-mile-long Flathead Lake, renowned for its fishing. Chief Pinelli plans to be a frequent visitor.

Not far away, hording one side of St. Ignatius, are the Mission Mountains, one of the largest habitats, says Chief Pinelli, for grizzly bears in the United States.

Before he launched into how his move to Montana came about, Chief Pinelli smiled and said, "I want to dispel a lot of rumors right now; I do not have a job."

Actually, he reported, the economy of Montana is very poor. "To go out there to find a job is extremely difficult. Work is hard to come by. There are a lot of distressed areas."

And although there is a definite need for people in law enforcement, Chief Pinelli says he does not want to get into the same area. Someday, he revealed, he would like to get a job as a park ranger in a national park. What he would really like, he added, is to work at the National Bison Range, not far from St. Ignatius, a 20,000-acre preserve under the care of the government that probably has the largest bison herd in the country, as well as elk, antelope, and bighorn sheep.

"The rangers patrol that park. I know that is certainly something I would like very much."

Trailer Trip in '78. For Chief Pinelli the road to Montana began ten years ago in 1978. That year he and his family traveled west in a pop-up camper and toured Colorado, Wyoming and Montana for three weeks. Chief Pinelli remembers liking parts of all three states, particularly the Grand Tetons in Jackson Hole, Wyo., and the town of Cody, Wyo. He also visited former Princetonians Bobby and Harley Quick, who had lived in Colorado and have spent the last 15 or so years in Bozeman, Mont.

"Bobby was quite an outdoorsman in town here," recalled Chief Pinelli. "He told me that he had never regretted moving to Montana, and said that parts of Colorado were becoming too crowded. He steered me to Montana but I still had Wyoming in the back of my mind."

Five years later in 1983, a year after an old friend, Bill Wunderlich, had moved from Minnesota to St. Ignatius, Chief Pinelli went out to visit him. "Bill used to call me every few months and tell me, 'This is the place to settle. There is no other place.'"

Two days before he was to return home and with no intention whatsoever of doing so, Chief Pinelli became a landowner. He and his wife had been looking at different areas, were returning from Glacier National Park, and had called the Wunderlichs to say they would be late. The Wunderlichs told him that they had just talked to an old-time resident who had originally owned the land they had purchased. He had 40 acres he used for grazing cattle — a parcel that others had had their eye on and one that he had vacillated on selling. Now, they said, he might be interested in selling.

They met. "We talked for a couple of hours and didn't mention the land once," said Chief Pinelli. Finally, Mr. Wunderlich, said, "Look, here, Ralph, are you going to sell that land to my friend or not?"

They bought the land with virtually no money down, and at a price about half what they had been told to expect. "He must have taken a liking to me or something," said Chief Pinelli, describing the old-timer, Ralph McCollum, as "one of the greatest guys I ever met." Mr. McCollum, in turn, was soon addressing Chief Pinelli, as "My friend, Tony."

"Out there, 40 acres looks this big," said Chief Pinelli, holding up a piece of paper the size of a playing card. "Forty acres is called a lot."

When he first bought it, taxes on the property were $121 a year. Since then they have gone up — $3.50 to $124.50. "I thought the people in Princeton might like to hear that," he smiled.

Originally, plans called for the Pinellis to build a house and, once established, for Tony to look for part-time work. Those plans, some five years down the road, suddenly escalated when the Wunderlichs, at Christmastime, offered Tony the use of their guest house, a half-mile away, while they built their home.

Chief Pinelli flew out in January, discussed it, called his wife and told her to gather the kids back home. "We talked about it and everybody was all for it," he said. He and his wife, Louemma, will be joined in Montana by their youngest daughter, Donna, 15.

His son, Peter, is a lieutenant in the Marine Corps, studying to become a jet pilot, and an older daughter, Janice, is a sophomore student in nursing at Cedar Crest College in Allentown, Pa.

Chief Pinelli should have a number of years — he will be 50 in March — to enjoy what he describes as "the abundantly beautiful scenery," and to hunt elk, deer, antelope and small game. His immediate neighbor, Bill Couch, who is quite a hunter and fisherman, is going to show him all the ropes, he says.

The state is so big, he adds, that anyone who has the time can jump into a pickup and drive five or six hours and hunt antelope on the plains in the eastern part of the state; eight hours later, he can be hunting elk in the mountains in the west.

Visitors from the Princeton area will be more than welcome. "I guess in a town of 800 it would be pretty hard to hide, anyway," Chief Pinelli smiled.

Career Highlights. Chief Pinelli leaves a career in law enforcement that he says he wouldn't hesitate to do over again. It has been a rewarding career but one that was also frustrating at times, he added.

He particularly enjoyed the ten years (1968-78) he was the department's juvenile officer. "We had a lot of drugs; we had as many problems back then as they do now. Some kids started to take the wrong path."

"It wasn't so much what I did, but maybe what I along with others did, that straightened some of them out. To see some successful today in life is a rewarding experience."

As accomplishments, he cited trying to get better equipment and improving working conditions when he became lieutenant of the patrol division ... "trying to make the job more challenging and motivating some of the men in different areas," he said.

One of his innovations as chief was every six months to move a patrolman to the detective bureau for three months. The experience gained in processing, gathering and securing evidence, plus the experience in booking and court procedures, have made the ten officers who have gone through the program, "that much better patrolmen."

One regret is not being around for the development of the badly needed new police headquarters. "I would have liked to have followed the build-

DO YOU REALLY HAVE ENOUGH TABLES?

A national agency took a homemaker's survey recently, and one of the findings they reported was that the average home lacks sufficient tables.

They said that there was not only a lack of tables themselves, but also a lack of variety of tables in many homes.

Actually, there are several decorating guidelines to use concerning tables.

First, if you want to have a really comfortable, easy-to-live-in home, you should have tables near most of your seating pieces — and that's easier to accomplish these days because there's such a tremendous selection of shapes and sizes of tables. It's not difficult to find just the "right" table to fit by any chair or sofa.

Secondly, although tables are practical and necessary to hold lamps, refreshments, etc., they also have an important role to perform in making your rooms beautiful. All by themselves, tables can add decorator touches if you pick the proper looking tables for the different parts of your room.

Look around your home. Ask yourself these two questions: Do you have enough tables? Do you have pretty tables? If you'd like to improve on either of those points, we can help. Stop in.

ing from inception to completion," he said. "It's been needed here for 20 years and each day it gets progressively worse."

Another improvement Chief Pinelli won't be around to oversee is the computerization of the department. "We're just starting it now, evaluating a particular computer with a software package." Of course, the department is tied into the state and national crime information centers — one of the changes Chief Pinelli has seen in his career.

"As recently as the late '70s," he observed, "if you wanted to get a lookup on a car, you had to call Motor Vehicles on the phone. Now that information is available in seconds."

What is needed in police enforcement here? "We definitely need a full-time designated training officer who would do nothing but give seminars on all aspects of police work. All large departments have one. With us," noted Chief Pinelli, "it's hit-or-miss."

Also needed, he adds, is an officer who will deal strictly with emergency management, one who will coordinate police efforts in the event of some disaster, such as a plane crash, hazardous waste spill, or building collapse. Right now with more and more industries coming into the area, Chief Pinelli warned, there could be a serious incident (like the Sun Oil line leak that ignited and could have become a disaster had it exploded).

"We need a joint coordinator who will be responsible for mutual aid from surrounding communities." At the moment, Borough Chief Michael Carnevale is the disaster coordinator for Princeton and Chief Pinelli is the deputy coordinator.

What does Chief Pinelli see as the future for Princeton? Traffic, already horrendous, will get progressively worse each year, as new commercial centers and housing developments continue to spring up in Princeton and surrounding communities.

"People look at Princeton," says Chief Pinelli, "and say, 'Princeton only has 15,000 people.' They do not take into consideration the sizeable influx of people who work and shop here that has a great impact on the Township.

"Crime is certainly going to increase in Princeton with the influx of people — that alone generates more crime."

To fight crime, more police and greater efficiency will be required, acknowledged Chief Pinelli, which is why, he predicted that, eventually, "we may see the consolidation of both police forces."

Schools, health, recreation, planning ... all have consolidated in Princeton, but the police departments have not. It remains a sensitive issue. Recognizing it, Chief Pinelli did not let himself get drawn in any further other than to comment that, yes, sometimes efficiency is strengthened. But his final comment on the subject was: "It doesn't necessarily mean bigger is always better."

Have a good life in Montana, Tony — and watch out for those grizzly bears.

A farewell dinner-dance will be held Sunday, August 30, in Chief Pinelli's honor at the Princeton Hyatt. For tickets and information, call 924-3108.

WOR Broadcast

$2,600 to $6,200, were offered Princeton businesses.

According to Peter Connolly, WOR sales representative, 30 different advertisers signed on by the August 7 deadline, with the strongest response coming from large corporations, including Church & Dwight, Squibb, American Cyanamid, Summit Bancorp (Princeton Trust), Clancy Paul, Princeton Forrestal Village, and Market-Fair. The Princeton University Store was the first to sign up, according to Mr. Connolly, and Nassau Street retailers include Edith's, Ricchard's, H.P. Clayton and H. Gross.

Out-of-town advertisers, such as Flemington Fur, Brielle's Furniture and the Raritan Valley Chamber of Commerce are also supporting the Princeton live remote. Advertisers will be treated to a luncheon at the Nassau Inn, courtesy of the radio station. Other guests expected at the luncheon include the mayors of Borough and Township, Barbara Sigmund and Gail Firestone, and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, which is coordinating this event.

The WOR staff was expected to begin setting up for Thursday's broadcast on Wednesday afternoon. According to WOR Chief Engineer Paul Stewart, there will be a dual set-up — a large table under a tent on the lawn, with a back-up broadcast arrangement inside the Nassau Inn in case of rain. The equipment will be guarded overnight.

Two tents and 200 folding chairs have been ordered for an outdoor audience if the weather permits. There will also be a smaller tent at which autographs may be solicited and souvenirs will be available. The Chamber has enlisted a number of women to act as volunteer ushers during the day. All have been advised to wear comfortable shoes and will be identifiable by the boutonnieres pinned to the lapels of their "business attire."

For WOR, expenses include moving people and equipment from New York to Princeton, rental of tents and chairs, the luncheon for some 150 people, and overnight accommodations for staff at the Nassau Inn. Another expense is the rental from New Jersey Bell of nine business telephone lines for the day.

According to Mr. Stewart, the station brings its own telephones and special microphones which are designed to reduce the amount of ambient street sounds that are picked up. The broadcast signal is sent over the telephone lines to New York, where it is transmitted from the station's three-tower directional antenna.

In 1935 WOR engineers hit on the idea of directing its signal north and south, up and down the coast, rather than in the prevalent circular pattern which swept over the ocean as well. It has transmitted broadcasts from this directional antenna system ever since.

The telephone lines will also be used to relay news from WOR's computerized newsroom at 1440 Broadway to Princeton. And they will enable hosts of call-in programs to take calls made to New York via the regular (212) 391-2800 telephone number, which will be relayed to Princeton. According to Ms. Recchia, some of the hosts may instead take questions from the live audience, or they may take up a topic and ask the audience to comment.

Shuttle from Jadwin, Parking for this event will be in the Princeton University Lot 2t, near Jadwin Gym, and there will be continual shuttle service from 9:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. WOR officials expect that a great many listeners from the Bucks County area will attend the live remote, as well as from the Flemington and shore areas.

The benefit to Princeton is expected to be that these people will watch the broadcast for a while, and then will wander off to shop and to get something to eat. Having been here once, they may want to come again.

As part of his advertising solicitation, Mr. Connolly wrote Chamber members that the live remote in Flemington last year "drew over 21,000 people and increased business, revenues and prestige for Flemington businesses for months afterwards."

Area Architectural Firm Honored at Exhibition

The design for the new White Plains Public Safety Building by Geddes Brecher Qualls Cunningham Architects and Moyer Associates Inc. has been awarded a Citation for Design Excellence and will be featured in the 1987 Exhibition for Architecture for Justice. The award and exhibition, which are jointly sponsored by the American Institute of Architects and the American Correctional Association, will be displayed at the annual American Correctional Association Congress in New Orleans.

In awarding the citation, the jury noted that the building "demonstrates a clear concept of functional and design relationships. The choice of form and material skillfully reflects the public nature of the building without appearing formidable."

Area Realtor's Vision Realized in New 'In-Town' Town Houses

FIRESTONE COURT: The view from the Williams Street entrance of the new in-town townhouses. One is still in the process of construction, but the rest are just about finished. The free-standing single family house is at the far end, with two townhouse units joined at their garages at the right. The facades are of reproduction Monticello brick.

Tucked into an interior lot bounded by Charlton, Williams, Olden and Nassau streets are five new townhouses — townhouses in the original sense of that term.

One could walk right by and not know they are there, except for the glimpse of a brick wall jutting at an acute angle, an unexpected facade, or a steeply sloped, gabled and chimneied roof. Set at angles around a paved courtyard, these townhouses look like something out of Dickens — as if they more properly belong in London. Unlike the joined-together townhouse condominiums springing up in cornfields surrounding Princeton, these are very much "in town" and make the most of the three-tenths of an acre on which they have been placed.

Builder John Sullivan of Jon Jay Inc. of Pennington describes them as an "urban infill project." But Jim Firestone, who had the foresight to put together the lot on which they are built, says he saw an opportunity to create something "very pretty" in place of the interior commercial and private garages which had become a "neighborhood eyesore."

Five or six years ago, during a recession, Mr. Firestone made several purchases in the neighborhood, including a former Buick agency garage with access on Charlton Street. Princeton University also owned a small garage with access to Williams Street. The garage collapsed, and according to Mr. Firestone, the University trustees were sufficiently intrigued with his townhouse proposal that they readily sold him the lot with their blessing.

Design Feat. Mr. Firestone asked architect Leonard Groom, currently a principal with the Hillier Group, to design the project on the 15,000-square-foot lot. The zoning there, as in much of downtown Princeton, is one unit per 3,000 square feet. Mr. Groom came up with a plan which includes one free-standing single family house, and two attached townhouses in each of two buildings which either replicate, or are similar to, the free-standing house.

All the units are three stories in height, and all have generously sized rooms. Two of the townhouses have three bedrooms, as does the single family house; the other two have two bedrooms. "I felt what was missing in the downtown, and in most townhouses," Mr. Firestone says, "was a decent living room downstairs and a decent master bedroom upstairs."

The Planning Board gave site plan approval and granted the minor variances which were required. Learning of the work of Jon Jay Inc. in building the Eaton Place development in Hopewell, Mr. Firestone asked Mr. Sullivan if he would be interested in building "Firestone Court," as this project is known. Mr. Sullivan subsequently purchased the property, with the overall design and with Mr. Firestone's conditions.

Architect E. Harvey Meyers drew up the working drawings, and construction was begun in June, 1986. Each unit has a single narrow garage, and each has a small, angular backyard made private by a natural wood fence. There are fireplaces in every living room (and also in one bedroom) and large basements for storage.

For Empty-Nesters. Mr. Sullivan says he expects the townhouses to appeal to the "move-down" market — empty-nesters who want a "fairly classy" smaller home and who have the wherewithal to add their own finishing touches. They are priced in the mid-$300,000 to the mid-$400,000 range. Two are already under contract, with the closings expected this week.

TALK ABOUT

DOGWOOD DECLINE:

with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates

Dogwood decline has been apparent throughout the Northeast United States for the past 5-6 years. Numerous fungi have been isolated from the declining trees, but most researchers agree the primary problem has been ENVIRONMENTAL STRESS. The extensive drought seasons and severe winter weather during the last few years are now taking their toll. The weakened trees are subject to attack by Borer and Discula (Dogwood Anthracnose). This will give you symptoms of extensive lower branch dieback, clusters of water sprouts on the main trunk and leaf spots. The branches continue to decline from the ground upward and the tree is eventually killed.

For best results in combating this disorder, remove dead branches during dry weather, control borers and maintain optimum growing conditions by watering and fertilization.

The Kousa Dogwood (Cornus Kousa) does not seem to be affected by the decline which may be a good alternative to the flowering dogwoods.

Successful Corporate Executive, Given a Chance 29 Years Ago, Now Counsels Inner-City Youngsters in Ways of Business World

Twenty-nine years ago, William Granville Jr. was given his chance. Now he's trying to see to it that other youngsters get their chance too.

When the high school senior, who had been convicted of leading a gang fight at Trenton Central High School, stood before a judge in Trenton in 1958, he had a history of getting into trouble and had already served time in jail. A school guidance counselor, Bessie Hill, pleaded with the judge to give the young man another chance. Her plea was granted.

The Trenton Central High School student found a job as a short-order cook at the Hope-well Valley Golf Club. "I wasn't prepared to live up to my abilities," he recalls. "My parents were good people, but they worked at a factory around the clock, and their education was limited."

Ms. Hill continued to help him at school, and he had the good fortune to meet the Lemuel Blackburn family in Trenton.

"They had a profound effect on coaching me and showing me, by their actions, a different route," says Mr. Granville. "I saw their four kids going to college, and they took me in and let me go out with their daughter, even though they were middle-class."

Bill Granville dropped his shop program, switched to the college preparatory track, and graduated from Trenton Central High School with all A's, except for one B. In 1962, he graduated, cum laude, from Delaware State College, where he majored in mathematics.

High-Level Post. Today, Mr. Granville is executive vice president, Mobil International Consulting Services, Mobil Oil. He is responsible for the management of human resources for Mobil's Worldwide Sales & Supply, Research & Engineering, Middle East & Marine Transportation Divisions and for Technology Transfer to the Middle East.

He believes in the free enterprise system, calling it the best system in the world. "I'm very positive about America. We have problems, but at least there's hope. I've traveled to many parts of the world, and people everywhere always want to come to America."

Bill Granville has been successful in corporate America, and it has treated him well. But he doesn't want the story to end there. He's determined to make sure that other minority youngsters are given the kind of training that will enable them to grab the gold ring too.

That is why, in 1983, Mr. Granville established the Granville Academy. Its goal is to build a bridge between the worlds of corporate America and inner-city Trenton. He says, "I want to help create a talent pool of young blacks, primarily, and of other minorities — and of whites, too, in the long run — to take advantage of the American free enterprise system."

Mr. Granville points to his experiences abroad, where, for the past seven years, he has trained Middle East nationals to hold key positions. "We can bring people from the non-industrial world and teach them to manage world-scale refineries, pipelines, and petrochemical plants. If it can be done over there, why can't it be done in our cities?" he asks.

This was the genesis for the Granville Academy, where 24 students each year, in grades 8-10 and mostly from Trenton, meet for 12 three-hour sessions.

Meets in Princeton. The youngsters are picked by a selection committee, which this year is having an especially difficult time winnowing the 200 applications down to two dozen. Meetings are held at Princeton Theological Seminary, and the youngsters are transported in vans provided by Jerusalem Baptist Church in Trenton.

"This is not a school," insists Mr. Granville. "It's a coaching and counseling laboratory. In the past, black youngsters would look to a future where they'd either teach, preach, drive a taxi, or work for the Post Office. These are all honorable, but there is more."

The academy teaches the language of the corporate world. Its focus is on Fortune 500 companies, and youngsters are given the message that it's okay to have a basketball contract — but what's wrong with being the negotiator, or the owner?

"The idea is not to create rich young kids," says Mr. Granville, "but to spread across the system. We'll end up with our share of the poor and middle-class, but we should end up with our share of the upper class too."

A typical Granville Academy meeting includes a talk by a role model in the business world and a "hands-on" hour in which youngsters learn how to do something specific, like reading the Wall Street Journal.

Creating Patterns for Success. The Mobil executive is dedicated to changing a pattern for failure that begins when people have low or negative expectations of minority youngsters. "This translates to poor performance behavior and negative outcomes," he says. "What then happens is that people with low confidence attribute success to the task being too easy. When they fail, they question their ability."

The academy wants to raise the confidence of its young members, and encourage them to attribute their success to their own abilities. "I want a high confidence level, so if they fail they don't blame it on anyone else," says Mr. Granville. "They have to put the onus on themselves, not attribute it to other people, or other things, such as racism."

When it's time to graduate — in ceremonies held at the Hyatt Regency-Princeton — youngsters are given two shares of stock and subscriptions to the Wall Street Journal and Black Enterprise magazine. They also automatically become members of the Granville Academy Club.

This meets each month, also at Princeton Theological Seminary, and features talks by minority businesspeople from Fortune 500 and other companies.

The club finds summer internships for its members. About eight students are working at Mobil this summer, and

Open Air Theatre's 'Wizard of Oz' Is Best Production of the Season

The Open Air Theatre saved the best for last — the Pennington Players production of The Wizard of Oz. Strong singing, imaginative effects and a colossal cast helped interpret an energetic production of a story familiar to most people through the classic 1939 movie. The musical opened last Thursday night.

To the majority of the populus, the words Wizard of Oz are synonymous with Judy Garland in gingham and Margaret Hamilton melting. Few people are aware that there is a staged musical version, and a temptation of many amateur theatre ensembles when presenting this show might be to merely imitate the MGM cast, rather than develop an original dramatic interpretation. Not so the Pennington Players. The familiar story of Dorothy and her unusual entourage and the Pennington Players, one of the more established Princeton area theatre ensembles, came together under the stage direction of Peter LaBriola and the musical direction of Louis Woodruff.

Without a strong Dorothy, there is no production of Wizard of Oz. She is onstage in every scene and must maintain an almost constant air of wonderment and bewilderment as she travels from a mundane Kansas to Oz. Kimberly Topper and Snoopy the dog portrayed well the roles of Dorothy and Toto (even if Toto occasionally "forgot his lines"); Ms. Topper has a solid voice and presented an almost flawless performance, despite ad-libbing to cover for the apparent forgetfulness of her four-footed co-star.

This was a mature cast, which provided cohesion to the performance. Tyrone McClave, in the double role of Kansas handyman hunk and scarecrow, was nimble-footed and agile, as scarecrows tend to be, but was a bit rough of voice at times. An extraordinary make-up job transformed John Kling from Hickory to Tin Man and the best voice of Dorothy's three "human" comrades belonged to Jim Kennedy as the Cowardly Lion.

Dancers the Real Stars. The real stars of the evening may have been the multitude of Munchkins, Talking Trees, Soldiers, Skeletons and Citizens of the Emerald City who filled the stage from time to time. The children cast as Munchkins stole Dorothy's first scene in Oz. Given the shortage of Flying Monkeys in Mercer County this year, Skeletons were substituted at the castle of the Wicked Witch of the West; they danced their own number to interpolated music from Camille Saint-Saens' Danse Macabre. Instead of poppies, the Wicked Witch sent "Jitterbugs" to intercept Dorothy and the gang on their way to Oz. These creatures (reminiscent of Saturday Night Live's "Bees") were designed to dance the hapless travelers to death — of course to be saved in time by the Good Witch of the North.

Another song which does not appear in the movie is "Evening Star," which is sung by Dorothy and the female citizens of the Emerald City. It appears from the program that the stage play has been adapted from the film, and this song may have been added to provide a romantic element to Dorothy's character. However, although well sung, the song does little except introduce an implication of romance which is never developed, and in fact, detracts from the high-spirited ambience of Oz.

This production of The Wizard of Oz had few breaks and falterings. (One lengthy gap in the Second Act can probably be explained by the calls of "Here Toto" coming from backstage.) Quicker timing could have been provided by the Wicked Witch of the West, played by Jay Stevens. The Witch scenes tended to drag just a bit.

The large production staff listed in the program, as well as the cast, indicates the enormous amount of work involved in this presentation. Although the 8:30 opening curtain may seem late for children, young audience members will not have trouble keeping up. They likely know the songs as well as the cast and will have no hesitancy about singing along.

The Wizard of Oz is a show for all ages, and it is comforting to know that one does not have to wait for the annual CBS broadcast to take another trip down the yellow brick road.

The Wizard of Oz will be presented August 26, 27, 28 and 29 and September 2, 3, 4 and 5 at Washington Crossing's Open Air Theatre. Further information can be obtained by calling 737-1826.

McCarte Drama Series Has Made Substitutions

McCarte Theatre has announced revisions to the spring half of its 1987-88 Drama Series. Stepping Out, a British import and winner of the London Standard's Comedy of the Year Award, will replace Born Yesterday, while Drama Desk Best Play winner "Master Harold" ...and the Boys by Athol Fugard will be performed instead of Long Day's Journey into Night.

These plays join a series which also includes The Middle Ages by A.R. Gurney, and Coriolanus by William Shakespeare. Additionally, McCarte will premiere a new work, either Lovescam by Tom Griffin, whose Boys Next Door was a critical and audience favorite in the 1986 season, or The Dark Sonnets of the Lady by Don Nigro, which had its original staging as part of the Playwrights-at-McCarte series.

Gurney's The Middle Ages explores one of the author's favorite themes — the decline of the WASP. Set in the trophy room of a men's club, the play centers on Barney, a charming but bumbling social rebel whose life and times Gurney depicts with humor and imagination. This production is scheduled to go on tour at the end of its McCarte engagement.

The Middle Ages previews on September 23 and 24 opens on the 25th, and will run through October 11.

Next will be Coriolanus, which previews November 4-5, opens, November 6, and runs through November 22. Shakespeare's tragedy of power, politics, and war blends with an intimate relationship between a mother and son. Guest director Liviu Ciulei will direct this production.

Richard Harris's Stepping Out will preview February 10-11, open February 12, and run through February 28. This play with music takes a comic look at an adult tap dance class whose students come to escape the realities of workaday London as they prepare to perform on stage.

In March, McCarte will present the world premiere of either Lovescam or The Dark Sonnets of the Lady. The season will conclude in May with a production of "Master Harold" ...and the Boys. Fugard's play details a rainy afternoon in a small South African restaurant, where Harold and two waiters spend a thoughtful, amusing, and finally heartbreaking, time together as Harold's eyes are opened to reality.

Subscriptions Available. It's not too late to subscribe to McCarte's 1987-88 Drama Series. Season ticket buyers get the best seats at the lowest prices and have certain advantages not available to single-ticket purchasers. Subscribers save up to $90 on a pair of season tickets, can exchange their tickets for a more convenient performance, are invited to sample the upper lobby bar (restricted to persons 21 or older), and dine at a discount at a variety of Princeton area restaurants.

McCarte Theatre is fully accessible to the handicapped and is equipped with an infra-red hearing system for the hearing impaired. For further information on seating options and subscriber advantages, call the Subscription Office at 683-8900 between noon and 6 Monday through Friday.

Final Week of Movies Set by Summer Cinema

Terry Gilliam's Brazil and Ridley Scott's Blade Runner will be shown through Thursday in Summer Cinema's 11th, and final, week at Kresge Auditorium on the Princeton campus.

Brazil, which is named not for the country but for the '30's popular song that is heard throughout the movie, is the first feature-length film from the animator for the Monty Python TV series. In it, he offers a vision of an extremely bleak future akin to that of George Orwell's 1984.

The counterpart to Orwell's Winston Smith is Sam Lowry (Jonathan Pryce), a gray-suited bureaucrat. Sam pursues a romance with a woman (Kim Greist) who may be a terrorist and, as their affair unfolds, he is propelled into a series of nightmares.

The film's supporting cast includes Robert DeNiro as a combination repairman-commando, Bob Hoskins (of Mona Lisa fame) and Monty Python's Michael Palin.

Ridley Scott's Blade Runner, 1982's "super design movie," presents a futuristic Los Angeles — an anti-paradise in which genetically engineered robots, called replicants, serve as an enslaved worker/warrior class. When a renegade band of replicants — played by Rutger Hauer, Joanna Cassidy and Darryl Hannah — reaches town, the space-age Philip Marlowe played by Harrison Ford is assigned to hunt them down.

But the real star of Blade Runner is not any one of the cast, but its set — a steamy, ravaged Los Angeles, studded with punk, Oriental and Hispanic artifacts.

The final double feature will pair two Summer Cinema favorites: Dos Boot (The Boat) and Night of the Shooting Stars, from Friday through August 30. Wolfgang Peterson's Dos Boot follows the adventures of a German U-boat crew in 1941, evoking the sights, sounds and smells as no other submarine movie has ever done. The movie provides all the familiar episodes of submarine melodrama more graphically than any of its Hollywood models: the hide-and-seek battles, the long sieges on the bottom, the slow leaks and the claustrophobic tensions.

Jurgen Prochnow plays the dogged captain, navigating the narrow straits of bureaucracy and a bungling German high command, a source of strength for his men even though his own cynicism and disgust at Nazi rhetoric are readily apparent.

Night of the Shooting Stars, by Italy's Taviani brothers, is set in a Tuscan village and its environs during a summer's week in 1944, when the American troops were only days away and the Germans were clearing out. The film is a se-

Franklin Theatre Presents Caine Mutiny Court Martial

The Franklin Villagers Barn Theatre will present Herman Wouk's courtroom drama The Caine Mutiny Court-Martial beginning August 28. The performances will be held in the Council Chamber of the Franklin Township Municipal Complex located adjacent to the Villagers' Theatre.

Franklin Township is currently renovating the Villagers' theater and has allowed the play to be presented in Council Chambers during renovation.

The play was adapted by Herman Wouk from his Pulitzer Prize winning novel The Caine Mutiny, which was later made into the film starring Humphrey Bogart. In the Villagers' production, the Bogart role of Queeg is portrayed by Doug Freeburg. John F. Hickson, Jr. is the accused mutineer Lieutenant Maryk. Drew Militano is the Prosecuting Attorney, and Richard Barranger takes him on as Defense Attorney. Other cast members include Al Brady, Sylvia Dixon, Tom Freuler, J.C. Morris, Mark Murphy, Rob Reinalda, Bill Smith, Jim Smith and Ken Webb.

Costumes were designed by Barbara Freeman. James C. De Rugeris, lighting and set designer, had the task of transforming the Council Chambers into a naval courtroom.

Performances are Fridays and Saturdays, August 28-

PCP Will Cast 'Harvey'

The Princeton Community Players have announced auditions for their first production of the 1987-88 season, Harvey. Auditions for the whimsical comedy by Mary Chase are scheduled for August 31 and September 1, beginning at 7 p.m. in Broadmead Theatre.

Harvey is best known as a movie starring Jimmy Stewart as Elwood P. Dowd, confidant to "Harvey," the 6'1½" rabbit. There are 12 roles: six men and five women. The role of Harvey is already cast, since he has agreed to a personal appearance for the production. The other roles range in age from early 20's to late 60's or early 70's.

Performances will be held in the Mill Hill Playhouse, Trenton, on Friday and Saturday evenings, October 9, 10, 16, 17, 23 and 24. Rehearsals and auditions will be held in Broadmead Theatre, 171 Broadmead.

Harvey will be directed by Judith S. Parrish of Lawrenceville, with Ted Hoagland assisting and designing the set. Ron Kelly of Hightstown is the lighting designer. The producer is Lillian Bulanowski. Ms. Parrish last directed Princeton Community Players' production of Cole and was seen in last season's productions of Black Comedy and The Crucible.

Auditions will run from 7 to 9:30 p.m. and no appointment is necessary. For more information or directions to Broadmead Theatre, call 695-7418.

September 19 at 8:30, Sunday August 30 and September 13 at 7:30, and Sunday, September 5 at 2:00. The Franklin Township Council Chambers is located in the Municipal Building, 475 DeMott Lane in the Somerset section of Franklin Township.

Auditions Are Scheduled For Kaufman/Hart Play

Auditions for Mercer College Theatre's production of You Can't Take It With You will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 8 and 9, at 7 in the Kelsey Theatre on the West Windsor campus.

Written by Kaufman and Hart, this lighthearted comedy has been described as zany, heartwarming, energetic, and full of hilarity. In it, a family refuses to conform to society's rather rigid expectations and laughingly suffers the consequences.

Among the roles to be filled are a no-account ballerina and her crazy Russian instructor, a wild Russian princess, a young couple in love, a grandfather nutty about explosions, a dotty mother, a xylophone fanatic, a maid and her sidekick, and an upper-crust couple who take offense at all the others. Minority roles are available.

Performances are scheduled for October 16-17, 23-24, and 30-31. For more information, call 586-4800, extension 566.

Bucks Theatre Auditions For Touring Companies

Bucks County Playhouse is currently looking for male and female leads for its touring companies for Singin' in the Rain, 42nd Street, My One and Only, and Sweet Charity. A male singer for Sugar Babies and both male and female tap and jazz dancers and singers are being sought for all the shows.

Audition appointments may be made by contacting the Bucks County Playhouse production office, 215-862-2046.

New Youth Orchestra

The Nassau Youth Chamber Orchestra will hold auditions for new members on Friday, August 28, and Saturday, August 29, at the Princeton Arts Council on Witherspoon Street.

The orchestra seeks talented high school musicians who wish to join the ensemble in playing challenging chamber orchestra music at the highest standards. Newcomers will be welcomed into a close-knit musical family where hard work is balanced with fun in a relaxed atmosphere.

Formerly known as the Central Jersey Chinese American Association (CJCAA) Youth String Ensemble, the new orchestra welcomes members of any ethnic background and this year, opens its auditions to wind players.

The ensemble is the only all student-run orchestra in the Princeton area. Under the direction of conductor Henry Wang, NYCO will perform a 1987-88 concert schedule that includes engagements at Rutgers University and the Lower Makefield Music Society. Plans are also being made to take the ensemble on tour. Rehearsals are held every Sunday at the Arts Council.

Auditions will be held by appointment only. There will also be an open house reception for auditioning musicians. For appointments, alternative arrangements and information, call student manager Ruth Chang, 799-5818, or conductor Henry Wang, 924-0823.

 For CSP's Next Season

The Chamber Symphony of Princeton, with Mark Laycock as music director and conductor, has announced its 1987-88 season as Basically Beethoven. Concerts have been scheduled for Sunday October 11, November 15, January 17 and March 20 at 3 in Richardson Auditorium.

The Hoboken Chamber Symphony will join the Chamber Symphony of Princeton, the Pro Arte Chorus and soloists Lila Deis, Erika Van Wyke, Paul S. Adkins and Peter Lightfoot in a performance of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony on the opening program. The remaining three concerts will feature Robert Taub, pianist, performing all five Beethoven piano concerti.

Each concert will contain works by composers other than Beethoven, such as Benjamin Franklin, Benjamin Britten and Tchaikovsky. Flutist Jayn Rosenfeld will perform David Chaitken's Concerto for Flute and Strings on January 17, and the winning composition of the competition sponsored by the Composers Guild of New Jersey and the Chamber Symphony will be performed on March 20.

Subscription prices are $42 for adults, $32 for senior citizens and $16 for students. Subscription prices represent a savings over single concert prices, which are $15, $12 and $6 for the October 11 concert, and $12.50, $10 and $5 for each of the other three.

Ticket orders may be sent to 67 Lambert Drive. Visa and MasterCard are accepted. Please include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. For further information call 921-2879.

 MCCC Gallery's Season

An exhibition of work called "Four Alumni Photographers" will open the Library Gallery season at Mercer County Community College's West Windsor campus.

The show will open with a free public reception on Thursday, September 3, from 6 to 8 p.m., and will continue through September 29.

The exhibit will feature the work of three photographers who studied under Mercer County College Assistant Professor William Barksdale: Fame Dileo of Lawrenceville; Mary S. Peck of Princeton; and Evan Lindner of Yardville. Robert DeLorenzo of Trenton is also a contributing alumnus.

Ms. Dileo, a freelance photographer, studied at Mercer under Prof. Barksdale and Louis Draper. She had her first solo exhibition, a show of portraits, at the Pargot Gallery in Edison last year.

Ms. Peck graduated from Wellesley College in 1953 and earned an Associate in Arts degree in Visual Arts from Mercer in 1975. She is currently studying privately with Sam Abell of National Geographic Magazine and her works have been several more have been hired by Educational Testing Service.

Juanika Willis, a junior at McCorristin High School, is at ETS. She plans to major in communications at college, and says the Granville Academy has taught her a great deal about business. She added that it was also a lot of fun.

Prototype for Others. Beginning this year, the Academy will be administered by Inroads, Inc., of Newark, an organization that recruits talented minority youth and prepares them for positions of leadership in corporate America. Inroads is planning to use the Granville Academy model as a prototype for programs in 29 cities throughout the United States.

Although his involvement will not be as great as it was before, Mr. Granville plans to remain a part of the academy he both founded and, for many years, personally helped fund.

Mr. Granville has seen peaks and valleys in corporate interest in hiring minorities. It was in a deep valley when he tried to get a job after graduation.

"I applied for three jobs in corporations in 1962," he recalls, "and I was turned down by all, even though I was a cum laude graduate." He went to work for the federal government instead. Only after the 1963 March on Washington did corporations open up and take in blacks.

He describes himself as being in the first wave, "the Jackie Robinsons of corporations." There were no role models, and if a black made a mistake, he'd be out. "In the front door and out the back," is the way Mr. Granville described the process. Even today, he notes, there is only a very small involvement of blacks in corporate America.

He feels, however, that corporations are now following a policy that will create a significant mass of blacks in their ranks — and he is determined to have the talent ready and waiting for them.

Bill Granville is an enthusiastic golfer, who often plays at Mountain View and Princeton Country Club. He and his wife, Jessica, have three children. Cheryl has just graduated from Delaware State College, her father's alma mater. Michelle is in the tenth grade at Lawrence High School. And Billy will enter The Lawrenceville School in September. The family lives in Lawrenceville.

The recipient of an honorary doctorate from Delaware State, Mr. Granville is on the school's Air Science and Technology Advisory Boards. He frequently lectures there, and at other colleges and universities throughout the country.

He has been honored with the National Association for Equal Opportunity in Higher Education Award, is listed in Who's Who in Black America, and is a life member of the NAACP. —Myrna K. Bearse

The Recreation Department has extended the registration deadline for its next senior trip. A guided tour of the West Point Military Academy and the Brotherhood Winery is scheduled for Friday, September 25. The cost is $32 for members of the Department's Trip Club and $35 for non-members.

Seats are also available for two other upcoming trips. On Wednesday, October 21, the group will visit the Riverfront Theatre in Philadelphia to see Chicago. Tickets are $31 and $34.

The final trip is scheduled for Thursday, November 12, to the Three Little Bakers Theatre in Delaware to see The Stingiest Man in Town. Cost to members is $35 and $38 for others.

Prices include motorcoach transportation as well as luncheon. Reservations are on a first-come, first-served basis. For more information, call the Recreation Office at 921-9480.

New Instructor Named For Aerobics Classes

The Recreation Department has announced that Lisa Watson will be the new instructor of its aerobic exercise classes.

Ms. Watson has recently sold a fitness center which she operated for the past 16 years and is excited about the opportunity to teach in the Princeton Community.

Her academic background includes psychology, nursing, dance, and exercise physiology. She also frequently attends educational seminars and conferences to keep up with the growing health field. Ms. Watson is trained in cardiopulmonary resuscitation, and is a certified aerobics instructor.

She has experience in training instructors, nurses and other health professionals in how to teach exercise to make it safe and enjoyable. Over the years she has taught exercise classes to people of all ages.

The Recreation Department invites all Princeton area residents to take part in one of the free, introductory aerobic classes which will be taught by Ms. Watson. These classes will be held at the Suzanne Patterson Center behind Borough Hall on Tuesday, September 8 from 6:15-7:15 p.m. and Wednesday, September 9, 9:30 a.m.-10:30.

At the end of each class, participants will be able to register for the new fall sessions which begin later that week. Each session will consist of 21 classes. The evening session begins on September 10 and the morning session on September 11.

The registration for Princeton residents is $21 per session while non-residents pay $42.

Doing what comes naturally, naturally.

New Coach Steve Tosches and Tiger Football Team Looking To Produce Winning Season Ron Rogerson Had Envisioned

They've been kicking a football around each fall for the past 118 years at Princeton University, but it's doubtful a more intriguing season ever lay ahead.

Even without the sad and sudden death of coach Ron Rogerson August 8, this campaign was shaping up as one of the more interesting in memory. Last year's disappointing 2-8 mark put Rogerson's revitalization plans for the sport temporarily on hold. But a strong belief has been building since before the first of the year that things would be different this September.

Part of the optimism stems from the quality and number of the returning players, who will report for pre-season practice this Saturday. On average they are solidly above the squad that reported last August. The 1985 team that finished 5-5 (5-2 Ivy) was dominated by several quality senior players, such as Doug Butler, who was not adequately replaced last fall.

Then, there are the three Garrett brothers, who finally will put on varsity uniforms for the first time here. No more has ever been written about a trio of players, two of whom have yet to see a minute of varsity action.

Their travels between Columbia and Princeton are well documented. Now it's time to see their much-talked-about talents in action.

Finally, there is a strong sense of determination among the returning players, especially the seniors, led by captain Matt Whalen, to redeem themselves after last year's debacle. The embarrassment started right in the opening game against Cornell at Ithaca, when the Big Red not only won big, 39-8, but "showed up" the Tigers at the end, when the entire team ran onto the field after scoring a fifth touchdown.

LAST YEAR'S LEADING RUSHER: Senior fullback Jerry Santillo led the Tigers in rushing last season with 437 yards, an average of 4.2 per carry.

The final humiliation came against Yale, when a second consecutive Big Three title that would have salvaged some respect went down the drain in those horrendous last two minutes. Nobody's looking to repeat that kind of season.

While the post mortems for last fall were still being written, many players were in the weight room, beginning off-season conditioning programs.

Tosches Takes Command. A confident and, as always, enthusiastic Rogerson met with the media in early June to give a preview of the '87 squad. "I'm so excited about the coming season," he began, and went on to tell why. Now someone else will have to turn his hopes into realities.

That someone is Steve Tosches, who came here as an assistant coach with Rogerson after spending four years with him at Maine. Swiftly elevated into the job, just a day after Rogerson died, Tosches will carry a few extra burdens as head coach when the pre-season begins.

Seated in what is now his office in Jadwin Gym last week, he reflected upon the timing of Rogerson's passing.

"The three weeks between Ron's death and the opening of camp will be helpful," he noted. "It will give the players a chance to stay home in their own environment and get over it.

"Still, I know the first few days back here will be hard for them. They'll expect to see him, expect to hear his voice, to have him blowing the whistle at practice."

A memorial service for Rogerson will be held Sunday at 11:30 at the Chapel, but the next day practice will begin in earnest with the exhausting two-a-days for the next couple of weeks. It will be Tosches' job to channel the players' emotions on to the practice field. He doesn't expect to have to make any "Let's win one for the Gipper" speeches to do it.

It's his team now and he knows it. "I've worked with these kids the last two years just like Ron has," he says. "They know me and I know them. It's not like I'm having to start fresh."

When the season starts the players will have some kind of patch on their uniforms in memory of Rogerson, but they'll be listening to Tosches' words in the locker room and following his game plan on the field.

Who Is Back? Who is Tosches counting on to turn things around? The following position-by-position breakdown will concentrate on the offense. The defense will be evaluated in next week's issue, and the opponents the following week, September 9.

Quarterback. As last season proved, no team goes very far without a strong player at this position. Three seniors with virtually no game experience, Brad Hammond, Gary Weisglas and Sean Welsh, had little success moving the ball. The Tigers were outscored by their opponents 262 to 123, their lowest point production in a decade.

Ready to step into the starting role as a junior is Jason Garrett (6'1, 192), the middle one of the three brothers. Although he sat on the sidelines last season, he got plenty of experience in the Wing-T in daily practice with the team.

Rogerson couldn't say enough about him in June: a natural leader, an absolute gun for an arm, good speed, smart, agile, able to drop back and set up quickly, run the option, sprint out, or throw play action passes. All the abilities needed to make a great college quarterback are in place.

Tosches also is well aware of Garrett's skills. The last time they were in use was when he was a member of the freshman team here in 1984. In just six games he completed 64 of 116 passes for 966 yards, seven touchdowns and five interceptions.

The key to those figures, however, is that they were produced almost three years ago, and Tosches believes that should be stressed, not only with Jason, but the two other Garretts as well. None of the brothers has seen a single minute of actual game time in at least two years, and all the practice time in the world can't make up for that.

"They may be able to overcome this and be fine, but nobody can guarantee that," Tosches says. "But I don't want people to think these guys are just naturally going to step right in and do it."

Behind Garrett is another junior, Brian Barren (6-0, 185), who was the leading passer on the 1985 freshman team, but Here's a tough football question for you ... The Miami Dolphins of the National Football League have had only 2 head coaches in their entire history ... One, of course, is their long-time coach, Don Shula — but who was head coach of the Dolphins before Shula? ... Answer is George Wilson who coached the Dolphins from their birth in 1966 through 1969 ... Shula took over in 1970.

Did you know that many members of the 1984 U.S. Olympic baseball team are now playing in the major leagues including such regulars as Mark McGwire, Will Clark, Barry Larkin, Oddibe McDowell, Cory Snyder, Shane Mack and B.J. Surhoff.

No football team ever had 3 quarterbacks like the Chicago Bears of 1948 ... Their quarterbacks that season included 2 men who were among the greatest of all time, Sid Luckman and Bobby Layne, both of whom are now in the Hall of Fame ... And their third quarterback was Johnny Lujack who had won the Heisman Trophy as the best college quarterback in the nation ... But despite having those 3 QBs, the Bears amazingly did NOT finish first or win the championship that year.

and how Princeton is doing saw next to no action last fall behind the three senior quarterbacks. Sophomore Brad Remig (6'0, 185) posted some impressive stats last season as the freshman quarterback (56 of 112 for 619 yards). However, unless Garrett is injured or the outcome no longer in doubt, these two probably won't see much playing time.

Running Back. In contrast to 1986 when Craig Fitchett was the only holdover running back with much experience, Tosches will have his pick of several solid performers. There hasn't been as much depth in the offensive backfield in years. Senior Jerry Santillo (5'9, 207) led the team in rushing a year ago, gaining 437 yards in 104 attempts from his fullback position. His 12 pass receptions ranked third on the squad.

Junior Greg DiFelice (5'11, 193) returns after getting significant playing time as a sophomore. Regarded as one of the best all-around athletes on the team, DiFelice scored a pair of touchdowns last fall and ran for 104 yards.

A pair of sophomores will definitely push these two for a chance to become starters. Rogerson and his staff never Judd Garrett (6'2, 205) may battle his way into the starting line-up first. Rogerson labeled him a gifted running back with good hip action and exceptional hands. He led the Columbia frosh in almost every offensive category two years ago.

The other is Greg Burton (6'0, 175) who led the Tiger freshmen in rushing last season. He's a sprinter, who runs track in the spring, and should give the Orange and Black good speed to the outside. Two more backfield candidates include senior halfback Luis Castro and junior fullback Jerry Reen.

Finally, Tosches is keeping his fingers crossed that he'll also have Steve Foster (5'11, 193) back after a one-year absence. Following a strong sophomore season (174 yards rushing 19 receptions), Foster was injured in an automobile accident in Germany in June, 1986, and missed all last season. He hopes to be able to play this fall, but must first pass a medical check by the team physician this weekend.

Interior Offensive Line. All the team, DiFelice scored a pair of touchdowns last fall and largely wasted if a solid interior line cannot be developed.

With injuries contributing to the problem, it was something chance to become starters. Rogerson and his staff never

Ivy TV Schedule Listed

Starting their fourth year of televising Ivy League football games, the people on Public Television have finally learned something the commercial networks have known for years:

Don't lock yourself into a set schedule for the whole season; keep your options open.

In the past, PBS, at the urging of the members of the Ancient Eight, had worked to give all teams equal billing on the 10-game schedule, putting each on a minimum of two telecasts last year. That gave arm-chair football fans a couple of gripping contests with Columbia to savor.

Sponsors who help underwrite the costs of televising the games had also wanted the Harvard-Yale game as part of the package. That killed PBS's chances of going to Ithaca on the final weekend of the season to televise the showdown between Penn and Cornell, both undefeated in league play, for the title. That's what happens when schedules are made up in May.

This fall, Cornell at Penn will open the schedule. It won't decide the Ivy title, but should be a decent game nonetheless. Five other games will definitely be telecast. These are: Sept. 26, Colgate at Cornell; Oct. 3, Princeton at Brown; Oct. 10, Harvard at Cornell; Oct. 17, Yale at Columbia; and Oct. 31, Yale at Dartmouth. No decisions have been made for Oct. 24 and the three dates in November, leaving PBS open to choose the best available game, according to the league race. It all makes very good sense.

really solved last season.

This year Tosches can count on four seasoned performers, but little in the way of depth. Seniors Mark Seilbamer (6'2, 250) and Josh Chambers (6'1, 250), who split time at the left guard spot in '86, will take over both guard positions this fall.

Senior Andy Johanni (6-3, 266) had nailed down a starting spot at tackle last fall, but a knee injury in the Lehigh game put him out for the final five games. He'll be back, and his replacement a year ago, George Sarcevieh (6'5, 271) who suddenly found himself thrust into the starting line-up as a sophomore, will hold down the other tackle spot.

Tosches sees the battle for center between two '86 reserves as a key to developing a good line. Seniors Dave Blazejewski (6'0, 245) and Chris Bormann (6'3, 240) will battle for the job, and in Tosches' words, "one of them has to step forward and do a good job for us to solidify the line."

Receivers. There is depth here also at both the split end and tight end positions. Tops at the split end is senior Jeff Baker (6'2, 190) who earned second team all-Ivy honors a year ago as Princeton's top pass catcher. He caught 24 aeriels for 315 yards and two touchdowns, including eight for 110 yards against Brown.

Nick Jachim (5'10, 176), another, senior, saw limited playing time last year, but Baker will be pushed by the third and oldest Garrett brother, John, a senior (5'11, 175). Like Jason, he hasn't played since 1984 (he sat out 1985 with a broken collarbone), but has good speed and hands.

Two experienced and talented players return at tight end. Senior Doug Struckman (6'3, 215) and junior Mark Rockefeller (6'3, 208) should catch more passes this season, with Garrett at quarterback. Rockefeller is the fastest player on the team.

The head coaching duties are new to Tosches, but running the offense isn't. As offensive coordinator under Rogerson, he was right there next to the head coach, helping to call the plays. He plans some new wrinkles in the offense this season, to be installed early on, and if things go as expected this year, he'll have the players to carry off the execution successfully.

1987-88 Schedule Is Set For Tigers in Basketball

No surprises are contained in the 1987-88 schedule for the Princeton basketball team, and it is perhaps a bit easier than the 26-game card the Tigers played a year ago.

Coach Pete Carril, who began his Princeton career 20 years ago in 1967, guided the Orange and Black to a 16-9 mark last winter, the best in the Ivies. Unfortunately, Old Nassau could not quite overcome a slow start in the league race. Entering the final two weeks of the season with a 4-5 record, Carril rallied his troops to win six of their final seven games of the season.

But they fell one game short of catching Ivy champ Penn, and finished in second place at 9-5. The one contest that eluded Princeton during this stretch was a controversial 81-71 loss to Dartmouth in Jadwin on Valentine's Day.

Complaints about the officiating led Carril to be ejected by officials for only the second time in his 32-year career. University president Bill Bowen labeled the officiating an "embarrassment" and a "travesty."

Looking ahead to this winter, the Tigers will open as usual with Franklin & Marshall at home on the Saturday after Thanksgiving, November 28. Their next three contests will also be on the friendly boards of Jadwin against LaSalle, Rutgers and Lehigh.

The first road contest will come December 12 against Utah. The following Saturday night, they'll meet Davidson in North Carolina. The post-Christmas tournament will be closer to home this season in Connecticut, with San Francisco, Connecticut and Hartford also involved. The Tigers will not be facing teams like Illinois and Indiana in tournaments on their own courts like last year.

After non-league games against Delaware, Fordham and Washington & Jefferson in January, the Orange and Black will begin Ivy competition on Friday, January 29 against Brown at home. The season ends the weekend of March 4-5 with games against Columbia and Cornell in Jadwin.

Princeton will be led on the court by co-captains Dave Orlandini and John Thompson. Bob Scrabis and Mike Harnum are also back, and there are some promising forwards and guards in this year's incoming freshman class. But the big man Carril wanted chose Fordham instead.
